Who We Are

Our Mission

Our mission is to be a resource and advocate for senior dogs and senior people on California's Central Coast.

We focus on helping dogs and people from Monterey, Santa Cruz and San Benito counties.

Our Vision

Our vision is to model lifetime care for dogs and all companion animals to help bring about a positive change in the way society thinks about and treats senior dogs, and to create better lives for them through rescue, foster, adoption, hospice and education.

Logo

Primary Logo

Use the full, horizontal logo whenever possible. This is our primary logo and should take precedence. If the logo will be displayed in a small size that would make it illegible, we switch to our secondary logo.

When the horizontal version is not a good fit for the layout, we use the vertical version.

Secondary Logo

Use the secondary logo (without our tagline and date line) when the logo is displayed at a small size that would make the tagline and date line illegible.

It can also be a great fit for a narrow or vertical design where this version would create a cleaner look. The primary logo should still takes precedence.

Logo

Logo mark

Use the logo mark in instances where there is not enough space to display our primary or secondary logo, or where we want to add branding but a full logo is not necessary. Examples are presentation slides that follow a main slide where our full logo was displayed, social media posts, swag (earrings, key chains, etc.). We stick to the colors black, blue and white.

Social Media Use

Add the logo mark to every social media graphic or picture we post to social media. For this purpose, we use a thicker version of the white logo mark to make it more visible on graphics. We also add a drop shadow/black and blurred logo mark underneath the logo mark to highlight the shape.

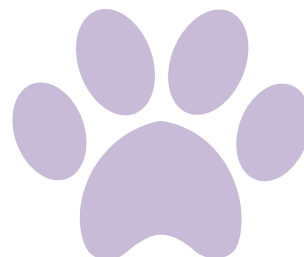

Logo

Paw Print

Use the paw print that is a part of our primary logo to give designs a fun and unique look. It's great to use with all tints of our primary colors and works with transparency if we use the paw print in the background of a design.

Typography

Primary Font

Our primary font is Myriad Pro in regular weight.

Body Copy

We use this font for all body copy. The point size varies based on the size and use of the document. We do not use serif fonts as they are harder to read and make text less accessible.

We italicize to highlight quotes.

Headings

The point size for headings varies based on the size and use of the document. Below are examples of how to vary headings in a document. These are examples that can give us a good idea of how to use color and point size to distinguish between heading levels.

We use Title Case for Headings, and do not overuse ALL CAPS, as it is harder to read and makes text less accessible. Whenever possible, we stick to title case for all headings.

Voice & Tone

Words are powerful, and the words we choose for our communications impact how our audience views us and how well they understand our message.

This guide exists to help us speak with the same voice and purpose so that we can reach our goals.

Brand Narrative

We are a nonprofit senior dog rescue that truly cares about the senior dogs and senior people we serve. We believe in the special bond between dogs and humans and are committed to helping honor and preserve that bond.

How It Sounds

Our mission is rooted in our belief that every dog deserves a second chance at life. Often, senior dogs do not get a second chance because of their advanced age and medical needs. With the way we speak, we want to express that belief and deep compassion we feel for senior dogs and their guardians.

- We are supportive, understanding, compassionate and competent. We know our resources and when we can say “yes” and when we have to say “no.”
- In the rescue world, we often witness sadness and cruelty. So, it’s important to remember that each pup has a fun, loving and quirky side. It is our responsibility to show that side of our pups so they can find their forever home. Use engaging and fun copy to showcase this, especially on social media and in dog bios.
- We acknowledge the needs of every pet and person we serve and also of those we are unable to help.
- If someone approaches us with negative feedback or is unhappy about our services, we always thank them for advocating/bringing something to our attention and say that we are sorry that they are going through this. We let them know why we cannot help/do something a certain way. We always try to give them additional resources to turn to.

Voice & Tone

How It Sounds

- Without our volunteers, donors and other supporters, we would be unable to execute our mission. Express gratitude for each group frequently and remember to respond to/acknowledge praise for POMDR with equal measures of pride in our expertise and humility!

Examples

- How others talk about incontinence vs. how we do it:
Others say: "Pepito is incontinent and needs to wear a belly band at all times."
We say: "Pepito does best with a belly band around the house to help him prevent accidents in his senior years, and putting the belly band on him is a breeze." (Be transparent but positive.)
- How we say "no" on social media when someone asks us to rescue a pup that is beyond our reach:
"Thank you so much for advocating for [DOG'S NAME]. We wish we could rescue every single dog, but our focus lies on dogs in our tri-county area of California (Monterey, Santa Cruz & San Benito counties). We usually work with a waitlist of dogs who need our help and are rarely able to bring in dogs from outside of our area. Thank you again for advocating for DOG's NAME. If you have more questions, please feel free to contact us at info@pomdr.org or 831-718-9122." (Be honest but caring.)
- How to communicate a "challenging" character trade: "Clyde is not a big fan of being home alone and would much rather be by his humans' side for most of the day." (Be honest but complement the challenges with a positive aspect.)

Voice & Tone

How It Sounds

Examples

- How to acknowledge a compliment with humility and appreciation:

Comment: Thank you so much for providing Roxy with such wonderful care towards the end of her life. You guys are just amazing!"

Response: "Thank you so much! We're so grateful that we were able to attend to all of Roxy's needs and couldn't have done it without the loving care of our amazing fosters Amanda and Cameron."

Voice & Tone

Key Messages

Our key messages focus on the POMDR brand and should be expressed in all of our communications. If we speak to adopters, fosters, volunteers, staff, the community or the media, we should always highlight our key messages and represent POMDR's mission and values consistently.

Our Key Messages

- Adoption - Finding senior dogs their furever home.
- Volunteer - General support and service to further our mission.
- Foster - Giving senior dogs a loving home to blossom in while they wait.
- Helping Paw - Walking Brigade, Financial Assistance, and Temp. Fosters
- Perpetual care - Making sure that your dog is cared for after you're gone.
- Donate - Generosity and giving that makes our work possible.

Editorial

Dos & Don'ts

- Use the word “guardian” instead of “owner.” It focuses more on the personal bond between the person and the dog.
- We follow the AP Stylebook for spelling and most other guidelines but are much more flexible with our communication on social media. Feel free to use more colloquial language, contractions, emojis, hashtags and more.
- Use fun alternatives for the word dog to change things up: canine companion, pup, furiend, significant pupper, doggy, fluff ball, etc.
- Do not refer to dogs as “fur babies.” While we want to highlight that dogs are a part of the family, we do not want to infantilize them or make them appear like actual babies.
- Whenever possible, mention senior dogs and senior people not “just” senior dogs. We have a dual mission.
- Do not say we are a “no-kill” shelter. Instead, say we have a lifetime commitment to every dog in our care.
- Express gratitude for our volunteers, supporters, adopters and donors frequently.
- Use affirmative language and euphemisms, e.g., say “foster keeper” not “foster fail.”

Editorial

Important Basics

- Always capitalize breeds but not the word “mix” if it is a mixed breed.
- Add a period to end a bullet point only if it is a complete sentence.
- We follow this format to give a time or time ranges:
 - 7 pm
 - 5:30 - 7 pm
 - 10 am to noon
- For dates, we follow this format:
 - HTML emails: October 9, 2024
 - For events: Friday, October 9, 2024
- We use the Oxford comma in more complex series for clarity. We do not use the Oxford comma for simple series like: “She ate an apple, a banana and a peach.”
- We use title case for all headings. Please capitalize all major words as well as minor four-letter words, e.g., “Partying With Pups Is the Best!”
- Merriam-Webster is a great free resource for vocab checks. It typically aligns with the AP Style book.

HTML Email

Dos & Don'ts

- Title Header is always Purple and One line

The Monica Rua Silver Hearts Fund

- If there is a caption it is centered under the photo, black bold text
- Blue is our primary bold color. We can use black bold when a second color is needed. Typically when there are blue section headers.
 - We can bold up to 2 or 3 of the most important sentences with Blue text
 - Do not blue + bold the last sentence of a paragraph and the first of the next, and be mindful of how much blue is used in general.
 - Bolded sections should be complete thoughts or sentences.
 - Reader should be able to read only the bold and understand the problem, why we need their help and the call to action
- Links are purple, bold, and underlined.
- Donate button is blue and centered (any button is centered).
- Quote at bottom needs to change at least every other time it goes out. As much as possible try to have the quote relate somewhat to the subject matter.
- Footer photo changes annually.
- Keep HTML as short and concise as possible while at the same time including all the pertinent info.
- Keep consistent spacing throughout, carriage return when there are new sections.
- Shaded Background for details, drop shadow card effect for whole body text.

"I started volunteering with POMDR as a dog walker and am a foster now. I am so impressed by the genuine dedication of the staff and volunteers at the organization. Their passion for providing a loving and safe environment for senior dogs was evident from the moment I started. They truly go above and beyond to ensure the well-being of these precious animals. They are dedicated to their mission, and anyone looking to volunteer with this organization cannot go wrong. If you are a senior human in need of support, don't hesitate to reach out to them."

What It Looks Like

- Don't cut off ears, paws or tail
- Don't put things on the dogs head for a costume photo shoot if it seems to make the dog unhappy.
- Lighten up photos and bring out color for any pr use.
- Always check if you can improve photos before posting them to social media, e.g., lighten them up a little, etc.
- If we use special backgrounds, post on social media sparingly.
 - Background must be approved by ED
 - Backgrounds should not be too busy
- Dogs in costume should not be photographed in front of a busy backdrop.
- Photo Examples: Happy Tail (at time of adoption), Four Website Shots, Connection Shot, Helping Paw Photo, Volunteer Spotlight, Costume Photo Shoot, Doggy Day Out (different setting than our backyard), Sent by Foster

What It Looks Like

- Use cinematic mode whenever possible for the quality and depth of field look of the video.
- Kneel down to the dog's level when recording.
- Consider the post-production and capture angles for best editing or voice-over.
- Make sure lighting is neutral and not too sunny or shady.
- Shot List for Reels: Walking, Snuggle, Personality, Sitting, Treat, Petting
- Editing: Keep it short and to the point, don't let clips run too long after the action. Find the central part of the clip you want to highlight, and also give it some breathing room so that the editing style doesn't make the viewer feel rushed.

Audio

What It Sounds Like

- Uplifting, sweet and sentimental at times
- Depending on the type of video, (i.e. - Adopt Reel, Interview, Sentimental remembering or LDG video), choose the appropriate feeling to communicate via music.
- For Adopt Reels - Watch the dog and their style to get inspired for the music choice, then choose a trending audio that matches it best.
- Always pick trending audio from the search or saved section.
- Never use songs with expletives or anything that is off-putting musically or lyrically.
- We want to be inclusive and uplifting with the music as much as we can, unless there's a dog that lends themselves to a different style.

Social Media

- Our social media presence should honor the dignity and charm of our senior dogs while sharing their stories in a sincere and visually cohesive way.
- Each post should embody the POMDR voice and tone. Consider using the following adjectives as a guide: Classy, Professional, Sincere, Heartwarming, Calming, Reassuring, Dignified, Fun (but not silly), Cute (but not cutesy)
- We aim to share content that feels genuine and emotionally uplifting without veering into gimmicks or over-stylization.
- Partner only with businesses, individuals, and influencers who align with POMDR's mission and values.
- Use our logomark with drop shadow to remind viewers of our brand identity throughout our social posts.

Social Media

Post Types: Volunteer Spotlight, Helping Paw Story, Happy Tail, Dog Memorial, Standard F.O.D. (face-of-dog) picture, Reel with person talking about the dog, Reel with dog video and voiceover (both with captions)

Dos

- Collaborate with businesses and influencers who value our mission
Examples of Collaborators: Animal Wellness Creators, Senior Pet Guardians, Rescues, Shelters, Sanctuaries and Veterinary professionals. (Ideally in our tri-county area or along the west coast.)
- Use hashtags that promote senior dogs and the various sub communities that surround that main topic.
- Make posts inspired by other popular creators and holidays.
-National Senior Dog Day, Halloween, etc.
- Make fun posts that have our dogs, staff, or volunteers as actors and are based on funny trends. (It's ok to be a little off topic with the video concept if it becomes viral and still highlights our senior dogs & people.)

Don'ts

- Avoid collaborations with controversial figures, or people who are extremely outspoken about sensitive issues and would polarize our audience in the wrong direction.
- Avoid hashtags that are polarizing and/or irrelevant to our mission.
